Subject: Microsoft settlement

To whom it may concern,

I'm writing to express my concern for the federal government's proposed settlement with Microsoft. From what I can understand, I see little in the settlement that would discourage this company from continuing to engage in anti-competitive practices in the future. Contrary to Microsoft's claim, this company has done little to advance computer products and software. In particular, their product design seems to be more oriented towards trapping users into their formats and protocols than offering consumers something useful and effective.

I urge you to reconsider the current settlement and consider a remedy that really would discourage practices that have already been demonstrated as being unfair and anti-competitive.
